

Dustin Kay

Thesis Defense

College of Humanities & Social Sciences

Department of Sociology

M.A., Sociology

Education Tracking: Educators' Perspective

Elevated instruction programs in primary and secondary education are intended to offer additional stimulus or instruction for individuals who may feel unchallenged by the common or base curriculum in school. Over time, how we identify an individual for these programs has changed beyond simply looking at who possesses more intellectual ability.

Event Information

April 1, 2024

3pm

Virtual

Committee Members

Dr. Mary Scherer

Dr. Karen Douglas

Dr. Jeffrey Gardner

Sam Houston State University

PUBLIC DEFENSE ANNOUNCEMENT